Note: Bonded asbestos licence

Since 1 January 2008, a bonded asbestos licence has been required to remove more than 10 square metres of bonded asbestos material. A licensed bonded asbestos removalist can remove any amount of bonded asbestos material.

To obtain a bonded asbestos licence you must undertake a WorkCover-recognised training course in bonded asbestos removal and bonded asbestos supervision such as this one. You must then apply to WorkCover on the prescribed form and attach copies of your training records, workers compensation policy, and evidence of your experience in bonded asbestos removal or associated building trades.

The following are key conditions of maintaining a bonded asbestos licence:

- all bonded asbestos removal work must be notified to WorkCover in the prescribed manner at least seven days prior to the work being carried out.
- the work is to be supervised by a person with appropriate qualifications and experience, and who is nominated by the licence holder to be recorded on WorkCover's licensing system.
- all those involved in bonded asbestos removal must have undertaken WorkCover-recognised training in bonded asbestos removal.
